Spelling list: Characters in The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy

The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy by Douglas Adams is a hilariously absurd and satirical journey through space and time. When Earth is unexpectedly destroyed, Arthur Dent embarks on a cosmic adventure, encountering bizarre worlds and even more bizarre creatures.

Arthur	Arthur Dent is a quintessential Englishman who finds himself in absurd situations.
Dent	Arthur Dent is a quintessential Englishman who finds himself in absurd situations.
Ford	Ford Prefect, Arthur's friend and researcher for the 'Hitchhiker's Guide', introduces him to the bewildering world of space travel.
Prefect	Ford Prefect , Arthur's friend and researcher for the 'Hitchhiker's Guide', introduces him to the bewildering world of space travel.
Zaphod	Zaphod Beeblebrox, the eccentric two-headed ex-President of the Galaxy, leads the group on their intergalactic adventures with flair.
Beeblebrox	Zaphod Beeblebrox , the eccentric two-headed ex-President of the Galaxy, leads the group on their intergalactic adventures with flair.
Trillian	Trillian , an astrophysicist, brings intelligence and charm to the group as she joins Zaphod on the journey.
Marvin	Marvin , the chronically depressed robot, offers a constant stream of morose commentary amid the chaos.
Slartibartfast	Slartibartfast , the Magrathean planet designer, guides the group through the mysteries of the cosmos.
Deep	eep Thought, the supercomputer, is tasked with calculating the Answer to the Ultimate Question of Life, the Universe, and Everything.
Thought	eep Thought , the supercomputer, is tasked with calculating the Answer to the Ultimate Question of Life, the Universe, and Everything.

Gag Halfrunt, Zaphod's corrupt advisor, is known for his scheming and manipulation.

Halfrunt

Gag Halfrunt, Zaphod's corrupt advisor, is known for his scheming and manipulation.

Vogons

Vogons, bureaucratic and unpleasant aliens, are infamous for their bad poetry and their role in Earth's destruction.

Zarniwoop, a senior researcher at the Institute for Advanced Study of Being Quite Surprised, adds intrigue to the group's adventures.