

Spelling list: Characters in A Farewell to Arms

A Farewell to Arms by Ernest Hemingway is set during World War and follows American ambulance driver Henry's passionate love affair with English nurse Catherine. Hemingway's spare prose captures the brutality of war, the complexities of love, and the themes of loss, disillusionment, and the search for meaning in a chaotic world.

Henry	Lieutenant Frederic Henry , an American ambulance driver, finds love and confronts the brutality of war.
Barkley	Catherine Barkley is a nurse who becomes Henry's love interest and offers him solace and support.
Rinaldi	Rinaldi , Henry's friend and a surgeon in the Italian army, displays a charming and hedonistic personality.
Greff	Count Greff is an older Italian noblemen who provides wisdom and a cynical perspective on war.
Ferguson	Helen Ferguson Barkley's friend and fellow nurse at the American hospital.
Van Campen	Miss Van Campen is the superintendent of nurses at the American hospital in Milan.
Gage	Miss Gage is a nurse who helps Henry recover and becomes his friend.
Valentini	Dr. Valentini is an Italian surgeon who operates on Henry.
Moretti	Ettore Moretti , an Italian soldier from San Francisco, fights alongside Henry and experiences the horrors of war.
Gino	Gino is Henry's Italian friend who is extremely patriotic.
Emilio	Emilio is a bartender in Stresa who becomes a good friend to Henry.
Simmons	Ralph Simmons and Edgar Saunders are opera singers.
Saunders	Ralph Simmons and Edgar Saunders are opera singers.
Bonello	Bonello is a ruthless ambulance driver under Henry's command.