

Spelling list: Characters in The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes

The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes by Arthur Conan Doyle is a collection of 12 detective stories featuring the brilliant detective Sherlock Holmes and his loyal companion Dr. John Watson. Using deductive reasoning and keen observation, they solve perplexing mysteries and outwit cunning criminals. Doyle's vivid storytelling showcases Holmes' remarkable intellect and introduces readers to the iconic duo that has captivated audiences for over a century.

Sherlock	Sherlock Holmes, a brilliant detective, solves perplexing cases using his keen observation and deductive reasoning.
Holmes	Sherlock Holmes , a brilliant detective, solves perplexing cases using his keen observation and deductive reasoning.
Watson	Dr. John Watson , Holmes' loyal companion, provides support and documents their thrilling adventures.
Lestrade	Inspector Lestrade , a Scotland Yard inspector, seeks Holmes' assistance in solving challenging criminal investigations.
Adler	Irene Adler , a talented and elusive woman, becomes a captivating figure in one of Holmes' cases.
Moriarty	Professor James Moriarty , Holmes' arch-nemesis, is a master criminal and the embodiment of evil brilliance.
Hudson	Mrs. Hudson is Holmes and Watson's landlady.
Mycroft	Mycroft Holmes is Sherlock Holmes' older brother and possesses a similar deductive intellect.
Moran	Colonel Sebastian Moran is Moriarty's loyal and deadly right-hand man.
Clay	John Clay is a skilled and cunning criminal involved in one of Holmes' intriguing cases.
Milverton	Charles Augustus Milverton is a ruthless blackmailer who Holmes must confront.

Wilson	Jabez Wilson seeks Holmes' help after an unusual encounter with the Red-Headed League.
Oldacre	Jonas Oldacre becomes the centre of a mysterious case involving an apparent death.