

Spelling list: Characters in David Copperfield

David Copperfield by Charles Dickens is a classic bildungsroman that follows the life of the titular character, David Copperfield. From his tumultuous childhood marked by loss and abuse to his journey toward self-discovery and success as a writer, the novel explores themes of resilience, personal growth, and the complexities of Victorian society.

David	As the novel's narrator, David Copperfield recounts his life story, from his early childhood as an orphan to his career as a writer.
Copperfield	As the novel's narrator, David Copperfield recounts his life story, from his early childhood as an orphan to his career as a writer.
Murdstone	Mr. Murdstone , David's oppressive stepfather, treats him with cruelty and sends him away to a harsh boarding school.
Clara	David's mother, Clara Copperfield, is a gentle and kind-hearted woman who marries Mr. Murdstone but suffers due to his mistreatment.
Peggotty	Peggotty , the devoted housekeeper for the Copperfield family, offers David warmth, love, and a sense of belonging during his childhood.
Barkis	Mr. Barkis , a simple and honest carrier, marries Peggotty, displaying his straightforward and reliable character.
Emily	Little Emily , Peggotty's niece, endures a tragic fate, which deeply affects those who care for her.
Uriah	Uriah Heep, a cunning and manipulative clerk, becomes one of David's main adversaries throughout the novel.
Heep	Uriah Heep , a cunning and manipulative clerk, becomes one of David's main adversaries throughout the novel.
Micawber	Mr. Micawber , known for his colourful language and optimistic spirit, frequently faces financial troubles but maintains his resilient and humorous outlook on life.
	Dora Spenlow, David's first wife, is a childlike and fragile young woman who

Dora	captures his heart.
Spewlow	Dora Spewlow , David's first wife, is a childlike and fragile young woman who captures his heart.
Agnes	Agnes Wickfield, David's childhood friend and confidante, eventually becomes his second wife and a source of strength in his life.
Wickfield	Mr. Wickfield , Agnes's father, is a kind but troubled lawyer who plays a significant role in David's life.
Steerforth	Steerforth , a charming and charismatic friend, is ultimately revealed as untrustworthy, causing turmoil in David's life.
Rosa	Rosa Dartle, a mysterious and embittered woman with a connection to Steerforth, harbours deep resentment and grief.
Dartle	Rosa Dartle , a mysterious and embittered woman with a connection to Steerforth, harbours deep resentment and grief.
Creakle	Mr. Creakle serves as the harsh headmaster of Salem House, the boarding school David attends in his youth.